Dated: 05th September, 2022

To,

The Director General,

ESI Corporation,

New Delhi – 110002.

Subject : Irregularities in allocation of seats to SC / ST / OBC in Seat Matrix for allocation of 50 % DNB Broad Specialty in ESI Corporation hospitals -

Sir,

With due regard, I would like to refer to subject cited above and invite your kind attention on enclosed Admission Notice 2022-23 (DNB 'In-service') issued on 31.08.2022 and Admission Notice 2021-22 (DNB 'In-service') issued on 10.11.2021 and to make following submissions: -

1. On cursory look of this notice it was found that in none of the stream points were allocated to SC and ST category.
2. For allocating reservation 200 point roster was not followed on consolidated seats.
3. For allocating reservation to all category, specialty wise reservation roster of L shape 13 point seems to have been adopted.
4. Further, it was observed that this L shape 13 point roster seems to have been prepared from this academic year only as all specialty having less than 4 seats were allocated to un-reserved category and fourth point was allocated to OBC.
5. Since, this is not the first-time admission for these courses are made, the preparation of fresh roster for all specialities this year is grossly incorrect.
6. Further to above, it is also noticed that the number of total seats allocated to some specialities have been changed without mentioning the reasons of such changes.
7. These observations clearly indicate that some short of manipulation is going on in allocation of seats to various specialities vis-à-vis various categories.

8. The sequence of allocation of points in new and old admission notices do not match with any location in 13 point roster and 200 point roster.

In view of above, it is pertinent to demand re-examination of allocation of seats to SC / ST / OBC in Seat Matrix for allocation of 50 % DNB Broad Specialty in ESI Corporation Hospital and finding of such examination should be published on official website of ESIC for information of all.

Yours faithfully,

(Heera Singh)
Secretary General
